CURTAIN GOING UP!

New Plans for McCarter. When the curtain goes up on the new academic year next September, Princeton theatre-goers will find that McCarter has a new role: the 1077-seat theatre will be a Center for the Performing Arts. During the year, it will provide the backdrop for plays offered by a professional resident drama company; operas, motion pictures, poetry recitals, children's plays, musical comedy, dance recitals, Broadway tryouts and road shows — to say nothing of the University's Triangle Club Show.

Princeton University is sponsoring the new Center for the Performing Arts. It is one of the few projects in the country in which a University has undertaken the sponsorship of a complete professional theatrical program housed in a single theatre.

The fall season will begin October 3 with six plays, each running a "split week"—that is, Thursday, Friday Saturday nights and Saturday matinee. There will be the usual concert series on Monday nights and lectures and special films on Tuesdays.

Surrounding the season, in early fall and winter, McCarter will present the special attractions for which it has long been known; Broadway tryouts, road shows and so on.

Resident Company Planned. A feature of the new Center will be a professional resident drama company which will present, over a four-year period corresponding to an undergraduate's stay in Princeton, a complete anthology of world drama from Greek tragedy to modern comedy, from Kabuki dancers to musicals. This will mark the first time in its 32 years of operation that McCarter has had its own professional productions.

The producer of the new enterprise is Milton Lyon, director of the last five Triangle Club shows. Mr. Lyon has also produced

Easter Dating

This year's late Easter—falling within eight days of the latest April date on which it can occur—is, of course determined by the Paschal Full Moon. Easter is observed on the first Sunday after the first full moon between March 21 and April 25. The moon was full on Monday, April 11; hence, Easter comes on Sunday, April 17.

Next Easter is something less than a year away—it will fall on April 2. March dates for the religious holiday are rare—there will be only two in the present decade, March 29, 1964, and March 26, 1967.

The fact that Good Friday occurs this year on April 15 provides a welcome extension for the last-minute taxpayer. Because it is a New Jersey state holiday, the Federal government will observe it. Accordingly, 1959 returns need not be in the Camden office of the Internal Revenue Service until Monday.

Note of warning: The Tax Man says, "P. S.: Postmarks don't count—have your return in the Camden office by Monday—not just in the mail that day."

Broadway package shows and "TV Spectaculars" for Max Liebman and has had experience as a director in summer stock and on Broadway. He is a graduate of Carnegie Institute of Technology.

The associate producer is Brooks Jones, class of 1956, Princeton, former president of Triangle and a leading performer and composer for the 1955 "Spree de Corps," regarded by many as one of the finest Triangle Shows ever produced. The general manager for the "Center" will be Mrs. Herbert McAneny, curator of the Theatre Collection in Firestone Library and former manager of McCarter.

Details of the new program are not yet complete. The number of professional actors who will make up the resident drama company has not been determined and no directors have been chosen. Presumably, Mr. Lyon will direct some plays and guest directors will do others.

Capacity Houses Sought. The first fall season will be more or less experimental: the University hopes that the venture will eventually become self-sustaining with full houses the rule; if this is not the case, adjustments may have to be made.

At present, the Center for the Performing Arts plans to offer tickets on a modest price scale, reportedly with a $1.50 top. Full season subscriptions will be offered, with reduced rates for students.

In the past three years, McCarter has had repairs made at an estimated $27,000. (The splintery stage floor has still not been replaced but Mrs. McAneny hopes it can be placed on the renovating schedule soon.)

Three years ago, a new roof was laid. Last fall, in time for the 1959-60 season, a new wall-to-wall carpet was installed and a new red velvet curtain hung.

The two insignia on the curtain—the University seal and the Triangle emblem—had become so frayed and the curtain so rotten that replacement was necessary. Mrs. E. C. Bleicher of Lawrenceville, climbed a ladder up to the old emblems, carefully snipped them out and then copied them with good brocade and embroidery so that they could be re-applied on the new red velvet curtains.

All of the rigging has been gone over, and the counter-weight system that holds the scenery over the actors' heads has been examined and replaced where necessary.

McCarter saw its first theatrical performance in February, 1930, when Triangle put on its show of that year. The theatre was named for Thomas McCarter, an alumnus of Princeton, whose $250,000 gift, combined with money saved by Triangle, made the theatre possible. It was built for the University, specifically for Triangle, and was under the management of B. Franklin Bunn, graduate treasurer of Triangle.

ROUND-UP

No less than seven fires, all of a minor nature and a majority of them the brush variety, required action during the past week. . . a general alarm sounded Sunday at 10 a.m. for a small blaze in a second floor room of the J. Robert Oppenheimer house at 97 Olden Lane, with slight damage reported to furniture, the rug and books. . . the largest of five brush fires resulted in another general alarm Tuesday at 12:40 p.m. when the field behind the Westminster Choir College north of Franklin Avenue caught fire. . . because of a stiff breeze and the proximity of houses on Linden Lane, all fire-fighting equipment was summoned but damage to a few out-buildings was negligible. . . a truck, reportedly a victim of spontaneous combustion, burned in the Lahiere-Kane garage on Spring Street Saturday morning, while brush fires also broke out on Herontown Road (two), Mercer Road and Ewing Street.

Anna Marie Van Nortwick, Carter Road, skidded on Rosedale Road last Thursday morning, struck an iron post, storm drain, turned over and climbed out of her car after it came to rest on its roof. . . taken to Princeton Hospital, she was treated for minor injuries and released. . . Nudine Johnson, 77 Clay Street, the 5-year old who was struck by the side of a car on Birch Avenue ten days ago is at home recuperating from a fractured skull.

April turned pleasant (possibly briefly) on Tuesday, but the first 11 days brought minimum temperatures that flirted with the all-time lows for the period. . . on Palm Sunday weekend, for example, it dropped to 27 and never went above 44 for the two-day period. . . names from this area on the Mercer County Grand Jury preliminary panel include Samuel G. Frantz, 64 Battle Road; George Ronney, 2579 Main Street, Lawrenceville; Helen F. Henderson, 254 Moore Street; Ellen D. Williamson, 100 Battle Road; J. Burwell Harrison, The Green Road; Stanley M. Smith, 1028 Lawrence Road; Michael F. Corio, Bear Brook Road, West Windsor Township; Robert M. Windlinger, 36 Stanley Avenue; David W. Sidford, 186 Russell Road; G. Victor Davis, North Road; Simeon Hutter, 28 Hibben Road; Harvey C. Emery, Pretty Brook Road; Charlotte S. Farley, 192 Varsity Avenue.

Ten Years Ago: TOWN TOPICS, April 13, 1950: Borough Council continued to study plans to install parking meters, but the original ordinance, introduced in the winter of '49, remained tabled. . . another measure to ban trucks on Mercer Street was also pending. . . the Board of Freeholders announced another $50,000 in improvements to the Princeton-Hightstown Road, with an eye to the New Jersey Turnpike, scheduled for completion in the fall of '51.

Company L, Princeton's National Guard unit commanded by Major James M. Keels, received a rating of "excellent" following federal inspection of its new River Road armory. . . Stanley Donald was named a patrolman on the Borough Police force after completion of a year's probationary service. . . the Witherspoon YMCA appointed Wesley Marshall, currently at the Harlem "Y" in New EGGS GROW ON TREES: For Easter, anyway. Two young members of the Junior Red Cross Council, Princeton High School, examine an Easter Egg tree made by members of the Council for the Pediatrics ward at Princeton Hospital. This is the sixth year the Council has made trees for small shut-ins. They have also made trees for children at the Neuro-Psychiatric Institute and for display at the Public Library; in fact, these tree-making projects have become so well-known that they are featured in the April issue of "Junior Red Cross Journal," the national publication of the organization. Carol Gormer (left) served as chairman for the project. Taffy MacConnell is treasurer of the Council.

TOPICS Of the Town

PRIMARIES NEXT TUESDAY

G.O.P. Senate Race a Feature. A primary race between Senator Clifford Case and Robert Morris for the position held by the former will highlight the voting in Tuesday's election. Polls in all New Jersey districts will be open from 7 a.m. until 8 p.m.

Interest in the contest has been mounting during the past fortnight, and a larger than normal turnout at a primary election is anticipated. The race centers around the efforts of those backing Mr. Morris to unseat Senator Case on the grounds that he is too liberal for their thinking, that he does not hew closely enough to the "party line" and that he has backed a number of "inflationary" bills in Congress.

Supporters of Senator Case, on the other hand, advance voting statistics which show a preponderant tendency on their candidate's part to endorse President Eisenhower's program. It is also their contention that if Mr. Morris is nominated, New Jersey will lose the Republican Senate seat it now holds.

A heavy primary vote is possible if independent voters who have not cast a Democratic ballot in the past two years go to the polls. Under the circumstances, they may take their choice between Mr. Morris and Senator Case, as may all eligible Republicans.

For a final report on the stand taken by the opposing camps in Princeton, see page 18. Dr. Harold W. Dodds, President emeritus of Princeton University, backs Senator Case in the final article of TOWN TOPICS: "Why I Plan to Vote" series, while the cause for Mr. Morris is espoused by Burr Fisher of 550 Snowden Lane.

Lord Is Opposed. For a reason unknown to most Democrats, Princeton's Thorn Lord, his party's formal selection for the Senate-post, is being opposed in the primaries. Opposite him on the ballot will be Richard Glassner, an East Orange lawyer who ranks as an unknown politically and has never held public office. Nothing in the way of a close contest is anticipated.

No races exist at the county level on either ticket. The only offices to be filled in the fall this year are two positions on the board of freeholders and that of county clerk, all currently in Democratic hands.

In Princeton Borough, complimentary totals will be accorded Republicans Albert A. Austen and Dr. Ellwood W. Godfrey and Democrats Robert W. Van de Velde and Gordon T. Waldron for Council. Township Committee candidates, also unopposed are Mayor R. Kenneth Fairman and Maurice F. Healy Jr., Republicans; Richard T. Frost and Simeon F. Moss, Democrats.

Stuart Robson, Republican tax assessor, is his party's choice for re-election. The Democrats will have no nominee, unless one qualifies after a write-in campaign Tuesday.

BOROUGH DELAYS ACTION

On Prospect Avenue Extension. In the absence of two councilmen and with clear-cut differences of opinion among the remaining four, Borough Council postponed a decision Tuesday night on the extension of Prospect Avenue between Cedar Lane and Riverside Drive. Final action will be taken at a special meeting to be called soon.

Before deciding to table the resolution until all six members could consider it, the Council heard an hour and a half of public opinion on the proposed extension. Discussion sought to determine whether the new entrance to the Riverside area would create through traffic on previously residential streets.

In both a letter and statements from the floor, William B. Dodge, representing the 120-family Riverside Association, noted that the traffic patterns would remain basically the same, since "people would still be going to the same place." The other side was presented by residents who observed that the new street would become a thoroughfare with relatively heavy traffic.

Supporters of this view included the Graduate Interclub Committee representing the University's eating clubs on Prospect Avenue, and 146 signers of a petition against the extension, all residents of the area around Prospect Avenue on both sides of Harrison Street. Mrs. Hans Winterkorn brought a round of applause with her forthright opposition on the basis that "Prospect Avenue has the right to be considered a traditional street of Princeton."

Good Faith? Proponents of the ordinance, including Planning Board chairman, Martin Beck and former member of the Borough Traffic and Parking Council Joseph A. Batchelder, both observed that the Borough should cut Prospect through to Riverside Drive to keep good faith with the Township. Statements by Mr. Beck and Mayor Raymond Male later showed that although there was never a formal agreement, there had been communication between the planning boards and the mayors of the municipalities to the effect that the Borough should consider the extension when the Township completed Sycamore Road.

After comment from the floor ended, Councilman Colman and Easter having been so long in coming, the Man was very much inclined to agree that a special occasion was deserving of special weather. Sunday, he predicted optimistically, would be fair and mild.

Mild all along, in fact, but a few showers Thursday were a distinct possibility. Clearing thereafter, and little likelihood of a return to the freeze that April produced for the first ten days. Temperatures generally above average, at least through the weekend.

Coyle joined in with their criticisms of the measure. Mr. Colman observed that he could not "feel enthusiastic about any plan which would siphon more traffic into Washington Road. It is important to fight against planning and anyone else to make sure we don't lose the characteristics of this town," he added.

News Of The THEATRES

The following review of "Oedipus Rex" was written for Town
 Topics by Mrs. Peter G. Cook.

COMPLETE TRAGEDY

"Oedipus" Has Great Impact.
 "Oedipus Rex", by Sophocles is a tale as familiar to us as "Hamlet" or "Pygmalion" and fully as compelling to read or to see enacted again and again, for its various possible interpretations and tragic treatments. Such interest was evidenced when a new translation of "Oedipus" was presented to two full-capacity houses in McCarter Theatre on Friday and Saturday evenings, under the auspices of the Arts at Princeton and the Creative Arts Program Committee.

Professor Trypanis has translated this classic tragedy in modern terms which show the work of a real poet with a deep understanding of Greek Tragedy — in his words a "serious and exacting affair". Working with a large cast and production staff comprised of Princeton University graduate and undergraduate students and Princeton resident actors he has done the production in the classic style with chorus and music.

His talented stage designer was Paul Glickler, '62, whose magnificent set was dominated by a Greek palace, the proportions of which filled the proscenium on the left, and the details of which gave authenticity to the Attic atmosphere. Above the graceful columns stretched a decoration of a lion and two hunters that was worthy of an ancient Grecian urn or frieze, and the tall, decorated doors, contrasting with the wide steps gave dimension and grandeur to the scene.

In this well defined background, the actors maneuvered in balanced groups, successful in composition as well as in color—color which was due to the handsome costumes designed by Betty Barrie and stitched by her corps of couturieres. The brilliance of tone and texture, the boldness of design and the graceful folds of the costumes, emphasized by Ruth Dorf's effective make-up, made the physical appearance of stage and cast a positive triumph. Had the lighting been more flexible, the artistic achievement would have been even greater.

Light Acts with Distinction.
 Against this visually exciting setting, the awesome tragedy of Oedipus was played out. Karl Light, one of Princeton's most accomplished actors, portrayed the tragic hero with distinction. His role grew as he took command of the play, until in the second act, he took over completely and through the slow, agonizing realization of himself and his ill-fated existence, he showed convincingly and indeed, thrillingly, the breakdown from "Child of Fortune" into "the most accursed of Men." The strength of his voice in assurance and in passion, its poignance, full of heartache and tenderness in bidding farewell to his daughters, remains one of the finest qualities of the play.

Etienne Sturhahn, bringing to the character of Jocasta a mature understanding of the difficult mother-wife role, effectively punctuated her speeches with movements of great queenly dignity. The audience was stirred by her frantic struggle against knowledge of the awful truth; and it was gripped with compassion when, at last, she stood frozen with the horror of that total knowledge.

Grenville Cuyler '60, one of Intime's most versatile actor-directors, played the part of Teiresias, prophesying Oedipus' downfall, his expressive hands as eloquent as his words. As Creon, Ted D'Arms gave the most consistently authoritative performance of the production; his firm voice and complete command of his role brought a definite charge to the drama whenever he was on stage.

"Oedipus" is more than the unravelling of a horror story; it is an acute study of tension dependent upon the acting. Whereas the intensity of the theme and the magic of the words was felt through the competence of the main characters, the chorus labored under certain difficulties and did not fulfill the conception. In presenting the exposition, the chorus was speaking the clear words in unison, but certainly not in the same Theban dialect and with little conviction that there was any relation between their words and their artificial gestures.

This, combined with the incidental and very sporadic music, tended to relax the tension built up by the central figures, so that the unrelenting crescendo of tragedy, vital to "Oedipus," was broken. It was not until the last act that the chorus became irresistibly mesmerized by the dynamic action of The Boy, Bruner Barrie, who, rushing wild-eyed from the palace, related the ghastly story of Jocasta's suicide and Oedipus' desperate self-mutilation.

The whole cast was totally involved; in fact, no one in all McCarter Theatre failed to emote. From then on, the drama swept on in a relentless tide, trapping the audience into the depth of Oedipus' suffering, into

"ANXIETY" HAS JAZZ

By Norm Symonds. An original jazz score by Norm Symonds, the Canadian jazz composer, will be an integral part of the forthcoming Theatre Intime production of W. H. Auden's "Age of Anxiety," which will open at Murray Theater on April 28 under the direction of John Becker. Tickets are available at the University Store.

Mr. Symonds' "Anxiety" score was first performed over the Canadian Broadcasting Company's network in February, 1959. Since that time, Mr. Symonds has tailored it to fit the Princeton production. Symonds' compositions usually combine the classic forms—concerto, fugue, sonata and so on—with the vitality and improvisation of jazz. The composer has his own jazz group, but has worked with Gerry Mulligan, Dave Brubeck and George Shearing.

Occasionally, in the course of "Anxiety," the jazz score will be underscored by a group of four dancers: Eleanor Coffee, Penny Rank, Peter Nichols and Cal Mittman.

Miss Coffee, a former dance student at the Juilliard School of Music and the Metropolitan Opera School of Ballet, has also studied under scholarship at Jacob's Pillow. Miss Rank, who maintains her own dance studio in Trenton, formerly studied at the Sidi Hessel School of Modern Dance.

ROBERT FROST TO APPEAR

Will Read and Discuss Poems. Robert Frost will read and discuss his poetry Tuesday at 8 p.m. McCarter Theatre, under the auspices of Celebrity Series. The 86-year-old New Englander has won the Pulitzer Prize for poetry four times, a record achievement.

Mr. Frost was born in San Francisco, and moved to New England when he was ten years old. His first book of poems, "A Boy's Will," was published when he was 35 years old, and his poetry has appeared in more than 20 languages, including Japanese and Estonian. More than a million copies of the American editions have been sold.

A keen observer and commentator on New England life, Mr. Frost became a Vermont farmer at the turn of the century from

P.C.D. CHOOSES PLAY

"Connecticut Yankee" Members of the Dramatic Club at Princeton Country Day School will give "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court" as their annual play. Three performances will be given, all at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium. The play will run Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 21, 22 and 23.

John Odden, who has appeared in two previous plays for P.C.D., will play the role of the Yankee who dreams himself back into medieval England. Mr. Odden appeared in the Theatre Intime production of "All My Sons" last fall.

Other parts will be taken by Regan Kerney ("King Arthur"), Joseph Riker ("Queen Guinevere"), Ward Jandi ("Queen Morgan Le Fay"), Walter Edwards ("Merlin"), Brock Putnam ("Sir Sagamor"), John Sheehan ("Clarence, the page") and Peter Hart and Gerard Cameron as two appealing young ladies.

IT'S BERMAN AGAIN

Shelley's Coming Here. CK Productions, sponsors of comedian Shelley Berman, has announced that Mr. Berman has received an engraved scroll citing him as "The Man Who Has Done the Least for Aviation in 1959." Mr. Berman's monologue on airplane travel is said to have been the basis for this award.

Those interested in the further adventures of Mr. Berman may learn more by attending McCarter Theater on Friday, April 22, at 7 or 9:30 p.m. Tickets are on sale at the University Store.

With Mr. Berman will be the Gateway Singers who specialize in jazz versions of folk songs.

HERE'S "PINAFORE"

In Savoyard Production. Three directors will be in charge of the Savoyard production of "H.M.S. Pinafore" which will be given in McCarter Theater on April 29 and 30 and May 7.

Munro Wade, the stage director, was responsible for last year's "Iolanthe." He has to his credit seven productions at the Pennington Playhouse and several plays at Miss Fine's School. He has also served as narrator for several films.

Peter Deign, choreographer for "Pinafore," has done dance arrangements for the Latin Quarter and the Cupidon in New York. His most recent choreographic work was "Coppelia," for the Brooklyn Civic Ballet, and before that, he did "Swan Lake" and "Nutcracker Suite" for the Anna Garcia Ballet de San Juan.

Mel Olson, music director, served in the same capacity last year for the Savoyards' "Iolanthe." At present he is completing his work for a Master of Music degree at Westminster Choir College.

"ORESTEA" SCHEDULED

At Nassau Street School. The Princeton branch of the American Association of University Women will present the color film version of Aeschylus' "Oresteia" at the Nassau Street School auditorium on Friday, April 22. The film is in Greek with English subtitles.

Proceeds from the showing will go to the A.A.U.W. Fellowship Grant Program and the A.A.U.W.—Continued on Page 8

IT'S NEW To Us

PIERRE RABBIT

In Chocolate, Colored or Plain. The Pierre Rabbit we saw was at Louise Maas, 52 Nassau Street. He's hollow and chocolate just like all Easter rabbits, but he did have a Gallic air.

Miss Maas also has a white chocolate bunny and a lamb to match. There's a chocolate (brown) chicken pulling a foil-wrapped egg which sits on a chocolate candy bar sled and a gold rabbit who also sits on a chocolate sled. Another rabbit pulls him along.

That colored rabbit has red pants, blue jacket and green basket, all purest chocolate. A popcorn bunny comes in pink or yellow.

Our favorite rabbit is the pink plush one. It's just a rabbit's head, actually, about 14 inches in diameter. Zip open his skull and put your pajamas inside. Carry him by looping his ears over your arm.

Rosemarie de Paris' contribution to the season is a gently ovoid box in pale lilac and silver with a lilac bow. Another offering at Louise Maas is a 10½-ounce hollow chocolate egg from Scotland, standing about six inches high and waiting to be filled by your generosity.

Buy a little duck. Squeeze his legs together sharply and he waaacks just like Donald Duck.

Thorne Pharmacy has Tweak 'n Squeak, a perfectly splendid white plush goose with closed eye, turquoise felt eyelashes, orange felt beak opened in song and coquettish black tailfeathers. A pink plush rabbit ($1.98) is a fine little hand puppet, small enough for a child to manipulate. He wears a hat, pierced to admit an ear. His puppet friend is a yellow duck.

Musical Easter toys at Thorne's range from 98 cents to $5.98 and they include musical bunnies and a wistful sweet-faced lamb in blue, pink or white plush. A rabbit pours water from a watering can into a flower pot as his music unwinds. Guess it must be "she" — it wears a candy striped apron and a flower hat.

Chocolate eggs big as ostrich eggs, bon bons with strawberry cream, giant hollow containers shaped like rabbits or eggs, all wait here for the bright eyes of Easter morning.

(Not precisely Easter, perhaps, but certainly appealing to a small duckling — the 12-inch flexible plastic spoon that squeaks every time it gets beaten on a high-chair tray (49 cents). A baseball bat and a hammer accomplish the same end, cost the same amount. Psychiatrists' fees extra.)

At Viedt's — where the candy department is open this Thursday, even though the shop itself is closed — there is a tower of Fanny Farmer eggs, including a richly chocolate one which is chocolate and nuts on the inside and chocolate coating on the out-

Down You Go!

Skin-diving on Witherspoon Street is the newest sport in town.

You'll find the equipment at Tiger Auto, 26 Witherspoon, and from there, you're on your own. Skin-diving is new for Tiger, but from the general look of things, you'd think this auto supply store had been plumbing the depths for years.

We liked the spear guns with detachable weighted heads and the Aqua-Sharp knife that floats — probably just out of reach. There are snorkels in green or yellow, masks for diving or just for saying "boo!" and large blue or yellow fins. A lot of this stuff comes from Italy, but for some cryptic reason a sign says "Le Monde du Silence."

Buy a pressure tank with a regulator, a constant reserve valve and a deluxe — it says — thing called an "Equi-Rama" which allows you to pinch your nostrils to equalize pressure on your ears. How far down you going, anyhow?

side. Comes in white cream and yellow yolk, too.

Just for fun, buy the half-dozen "eggs", of French chocolate covered with a white candy which looks precisely like a real eggshell. There's even a crack in one egg. The six eggs look so real, lying in their carton, that you expect to find fragments of straw.

The Fanny Farmer chocolate eggs are 39 cents for the quarter-pounder, 65 cents for the half pound. A gift box of rabbit and two eggs is $1. (These are hollow chocolate confections).

In the bulk, Viedt's and Louise Maas have tiny jelly beans, pheasant eggs and foil-wrapped novelties of all kinds.

Hooked! One way or another, Tiger Auto has you fishing. You — Continued on Page 23

AND THOU BESIDE ME: Siohban Taylor, "Patrasche, the Wonder Dog," and David Ladd find a moment of repose in "A Dog of Flanders." The CinemaScope, color picture, which also features the Santa Cecilia Academy orchestra and chorus of Rome, will be featured at the Playhouse through Tuesday.

THE PLAYHOUSE

A Dog of Flanders (April 14-19) is a surprisingly good picture of a boy growing up in Flanders at the turn of the century. Filmed on location in Belgium and Holland in CinemaScope and color, the film stars David Ladd, Donald Crisp and the remarkable Theodore Bikel. The dog, whose relationship with the boy (Ladd) is handled warmly but not cloyingly, is Walt Disney's Old Yeller, disguised here as "Patrasche, the Wonder Dog."

Ladd, an orphan, is struggling to maintain his ailing grandfather's milk cart route. On their rounds, the old man (Crisp) and the boy find and nurse back to health a cart dog left to die by his alcoholic master. When Crisp becomes too feeble to continue the trips, Ladd is befriended by Bikel, an artist who encourages the lad's aspirations to become a painter and protects him when the drunken peddler tries to reclaim his dog. Under Bikel's tutelage, Ladd enters a painting in a children's art contest. He needs the prize money, and when his work is edged out by an inferior painting he runs off in despair. Bikel recognizes the extent of the boy's talent and, with the help of the dog, tracks him down to the Cathedral of Our Lady, where Ladd is awe-struck before Rubens' "Deposition."

The acting is good throughout, and James B. Clark's direction catches the spirit of the story beautifully. Ted Sherdemans did the screenplay.

Home From the Hill (April 20-26). Hollywood, that glittering but naive un-world, exists by simplification. The film with the most extras equals The Best Picture of the Year. Courtroom sequences, all courtroom sequences, are entertaining. There's no business like show business. Adult means sexual.

It is to the latter tautology that we will direct this week's quibbling. On the whole, it is undoubtedly a good thing that the movies have broken free of the necessity to produce repetitive schoolgirl fantasies about half-men and genderless women who live happily ever after. Straightforward treatment of relationship involving sex can be meaningful and necessary; without it, we would not have had "Room at the Top," and that would have been a tremendous loss. But the movie makers are dishonest when they expect us to believe that the increasing number of clinical, key-hole-peeking films are anything but sensational trash. Childish dime-novel pictures do not become less childish because they include an abortion or an impotent husband.

"Home From the Hill" includes an unfaithful husband (Robert Mitchum), an unresponsive wife (Eleanor Parker), an illegitimate son (George Peppard) and a teenage pregnancy (Luna Patten, by George Hamilton). Everett Sloane, as Miss Patten's father, and Miss Parker give good performances, but the screenplay, adapted from William Humphrey's novel, has little to do with human emotions or logical development. Sol C. Siegel produced the film in CinemaScope and color.

U.S.A. prologue by fatherly old Art Linkletter and English voices dubbed by, among others, Sandra Dee, Tommy Kirk and Patty McCormack. Produced in Eastman color. It is a pleasant enough retelling of the old tale, although the technical production, while competent, is not up to Walt Disney's level.

The story involves a boy who is kidnapped by the snow queen and the efforts of his girl playmate to find him. Her search is a difficult one, as she becomes involved with robbers, princes and princesses and a reindeer. It all turns out happily when the first thaw melts the snow queen. The kids will enjoy this one if they're still too young to stay up for "Peter Gunn."

Come Back, Africa (April 18), a presentation of Film Art Productions, follows a native, known only as Zecariah, through a series of fruitless attempts to find a secure place in the world. Zecariah is thwarted at every turn — sometimes by whites, sometimes by blacks, sometimes by his own naivete.

But producer-director Lionel ("On the Bowery") Rogosin did not spend months convincing authorities that he was filming a musical travelogue and searching among the natives for his actors merely to present Zecariah's personal story. The story is that of

Spring Is Really Here

Proof that Spring is really here at last came this week with the announcement that the first French Flower Market of the season will be held this Saturday from 9 to 11:30 a.m. at the usual location, the small park in the triangle at Nassau and Mercer Streets, opposite Town Topics.

A Princeton tradition for more than 30 years, the market is sponsored by the Garden Club of Princeton. Proceeds are donated to community welfare organizations.

Mrs. Hamilton Cotter and Mrs. Thomas P. Cook will supervise the French Markets this Spring. Mrs. Kenneth Condit will be in charge this Saturday.

a people too long oppressed. The camera seeks out the industrious and the lazy, the honest and the underhanded, the kind and the cold-hearted, the artist, the bully, the intellectual, the prostitute — a spectrum of humanity. Rogosin does not make his point over statement, but by implying throughout the question, "These are people; why are they not treated like people?"

Despite the obvious drawbacks involved in working with untrained actors and hidden cameras the production comes off surprisingly well. Music and sound effects provide an immediately effective transition to the troubled world of the action and the camera is intelligently used. "Come Back, Africa" is a sensitive scrutiny of the face behind the headlines and the mind behind the face. Recommended.

On the program with "Come Back, Africa," Film Art Productions will also present the seven-minute black-and-white short, "My Own Yard to Play In," which won first prize at the Venice Film Festival last year. The photographer, Phil Lerner, will speak after the showings.

Ivan the Terrible (April 19-23) is a thundering and terribly beautiful screen achievement, produced in Russia by Sergei Eisenstein with Nikolai Cherkassov in the title role. Before his death in 1948, Eisenstein had planned a great cycle of related films on Ivan's bloody career, but only Parts I and II, which take three hours in this combined program, were completed. Part I won the 1947 Stalin Prize, but Part II went too far in the analogies it drew between Ivan and Stalin, and Eisenstein was reprimanded. Part II was not released until last year.

The first part details the foundation of Ivan's royal power and personal happiness, and shows him winning popular support in his growing breach with the nobles. In Part II, the nobles attempt to dethrone the ruler, but he triumphs by staging a monumental purge. This is clearly parallel to Stalin's great purge of the 30's, and Ivan emerges from it as a paranoiac and dangerous man.

Eisenstein conceived of the Ivan cycle as a colossal symphony for the screen, and darkness is the continuing theme. The entire second part was filmed at night in a low-ceilinged crypt and there is a grotesque, nightmarish quality about it. The acting is broad, in keeping with the scope of events, but only rarely does it become stacy and artificial.

At its best, the film catches something of the prophetic horror and beauty of the great Russian novels. The score is by Prokofiev. Recommended.

Councilman Coyle made an even stronger denunciation of the ordinance, noting that it was introduced after "20 years of abortive and very bad planning." He stressed that action should not be taken without solution of larger problems such as the circumferential highways, and concluded that the Prospect extension was "the wrong way at the wrong time."

While concurring in Councilman Coyle's comments on the need for better planning, Councilman William Walker disagreed with his conclusions on the basis that "Prospect has to go through as part of the major local road system." He pointed out that it is for the convenience of the local traffic of the Borough and Township.

Taxi Rates Proposed. After the Prospect Avenue extension was finally disposed of (and the attendance dwindled from about 70 to 15), Borough Council returned to the question of taxi rates which has been before it in one form or another for the past month. An ordinance was introduced which would raise the basic rate from 50 to 60 cents, with other rates going up in proportion — if at all. The Council's increase in the basic rate is 15 cents shy of the amount requested by the taxi owners last month. Although the night rates proposed do come up to those asked, the day-time additional passenger rate was left at the present 25 cents rather than raised to the requested 50 cents. A public hearing will be held on the proposed rates on May 10.

In other business, Council:

• Introduced an ordinance to approve an agreement between Borough and Township establishing a joint public library, which, if passed in both municipalities, will go on the November ballot.

• Approved a recommendation from the Committee on the Future of Princeton that the Mitchell property at 69 Chambers Street not be rezoned for business, and learned that the First National Bank, as trustee for the property, has already begun to sue the Mayor and Council on the matter.

• Heard that the State Superior Court has finally given permission to tear down Rose Cottage, former home of the Cooperative Nursey School which has been condemned for over a year.

• Named former superintendent of the sewer plant and inclinator Harry J. Kahny consultant on sewage treatment, so that he can realize maximum benefits on his retirement pay while continuing to serve the Borough.

MAGUIRE MADE SERGEANT

On Force Eight Years. Patrolman Francis J. Maguire was advanced to the rank of sergeant by action of the Borough Council on Tuesday, filling the vacancy created by the demotion of Sgt. Joseph D. Hagadorn last month.

After recommending Patrolman Maguire's promotion, Police Commissioner Dan Coyle commended the new sergeant for his work as juvenile officer. A member of the police force for eight years, Patrolman Maguire has served as juvenile officer since early this year.

The 35-year old policeman graduated as high man in the 22nd Municipal Class at the New Jersey State Police Academy in Sea Girt. He is married and lives at 269 Hawthorne Avenue.

SANDER MAY JOIN BOARD

To Fill Vacancy. Hans K. Sander, Princeton-based architect, may accept an appointment to the Township Planning Board to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation on March 1 of Calvin Schofield, former Township engineer. Mr. Sander has been working closely in recent months with the Planning Board in pin-pointing the master road plan.

If Mr. Sander accepts, there would, in effect, be an additional member on the Board because James Broth, newly-appointed engineer who succeeds Mr. Schofield, would sit in on all Board meetings.

Thoughtful Gesture! send FLOWERS

One peek into our shop will fill you with the Easter spirit. We don't cotton to the "plain pipe racks" school of merchandising. We have wall-to-wall overhead and quite frankly we try to impress you and overwhelm you with our displays. Colorful, lush, fragrant—you'll remember Allen's and, like that field of daffodils, the memory of our shop, "will flash upon that inward eye, which is the bliss of solitude." Bring the family, this is a treat for everyone. Potted plants start at 75c.

*"Daffodils", Wordsworth

Our Gloxinias are grown from seed (important because the plants produce more flowers from seeds than from bulbs) and are probably the most spectacular plants in our entire Easter display. Definitely exhibition stock, $5.00 each and worth it.

Goodies Galore at our shop! Two months ago, we sampled our way through the national candy show. We are not sure if our blood count went up because of the excitement or the sugar, but we are still all shook up over our candy line. Decorated coconut-cream eggs from 40c, and Flavo-creme pops shaped like Easter bunnies.

Adult status-seekers would do well to display prominently a box of our Gregor "petite miniature chocolates," party mints or petit fours. Priced from $1.50.

If you send flowers to anyone in this area, we'll deliver free. Just call HO 6-0062

Try it! Open your heart with flowers by wire. You will almost feel the glow come back across the miles. For flowers are so warm and human, they really touch people... deeply. If you can't be there, send flowers — by wire. We guarantee quality and deliver ANYWHERE — or your money back.

Cymbidium Orchids 2.95 or 2 for 5.00
Hybrid Orchids 5.00, 7.50 or 10.00
Carnation Corsages 3.00, 4.00 or 5.00
(Special Kiddie's Corsage 1.50)

We also have gardenias, violets, roses that may be gift boxed, carded and delivered.

The trend is to light, airy corsages. We do a good job.

Probably no other gift causes such excitement as a box of cut flowers from Allen's. It is always fun to open packages, but peeking into our gold and white gift box is a thrilling event. Whether yours is a gift of roses or a selection of spring flowers, our "plus" service includes a gift card, cut flower food and card. Boxes from 3.50 sented a successful petition to West Windsor Township Committee asking that developer Werner Ziff of Princeton Colonial Park, be required to finish certain construction jobs which, the residents said, he had promised to complete a year and a half ago. The petitioners said that some driveways, curblings, pavements and drainage had been left undone, although Mr. Ziff repeatedly assured the residents that he would complete these projects. One resident complained of a "lake" about 150 feet wide in his rear property.

Mr. Ziff, who was present at Monday's meeting, told Committee members that he would satisfy the requests within the next three weeks, and would black-top Penn Lyle Road within six weeks. Mr. Ziff had asked for 80 building permits to construct new houses, but the West Windsor engineer had recommended the issuance of only 20 because of incomplete work on the earlier houses.

IN THE SWIM
Pool Planned for July. The Broadmead Swimming Club has been organized for the University's faculty and administrative personnel living in the area bounded by Alexander and Nassau Streets, Cedar Lane and Carnegie Lake. The club will rent the land (slightly less than an acre) from the University at a nominal sum. The property is located across from and slightly south of Princeton Country Day School.

A $10 fee will cover membership as long as the family lives in the area. The $100 fee charged for each swimming season includes the entire family and unlimited use of the facilities. The venture has been set up on a non-profit cooperative basis.

Subscriptions would be limited to 70 families, and about 60 percent of that number have already signed up. Part of the initial sum of $27,000 for the installation of the facilities has been borrowed from various members at a low interest rate, with the principal repayable over ten years. The remainder will come from a bank. The pool will measure 35 by 75 feet, and will be connected to a children's pool of 16 by 16 by a concrete deck area. There will be a sandbox for the children as well.

To Apply for Permit. The club will seek a special permit from the Township Zoning Board on Monday, April 25. Since the pool will be within walking distance for most families, a parking problem does not seem to exist. The University owns Fitz-Randolph Road and Broadmead.

Work will begin as soon as the permit has been granted, and it is hoped the pool will be completed by July.

WHO WANTS SIDEWALKS?

In Township. A small but vociferous group of Township residents appeared before the Planning Board Monday night and expressed their opposition to the Township's established plan of laying sidewalks within a half-mile radius of each Township school.

The remarks were made in response to a letter from the Littlebrook-Riverside PTA Safety

Fire Department Praised

Letters praising Princeton Volunteer Fire Department for its efficiency in handling fires in their homes have been received from two Princeton residents.

One was from Norman E. Steenrod of 129 Broadmead, who expressed his appreciation "not only for prompt and vigorous action in extinguishing the fire, but also for the great care exercised in protecting the furnishings of the house from water damage."

The other was from Mrs. Minnie Teleso of 303 Ewing Street, who thanked the department for its "quick response and all-out welcomed help." "The efficiency with which you work is tremendous," wrote Mrs. Teleso. "I am indeed grateful to be in a town with such a ready Volunteer Fire Department."

Committee, whose members had studied maps, clocked the traffic on several Township streets, and informed the Planning Board that it had selected the following streets as ones which should be ear-marked for sidewalks:

Longview; Riverside to Lake Drive; Cedar Lane to Sycamore; Magnolia; Broadripple; Snowden Lane from Franklin to Abernathy; Abernathy; Grover from Randall to Franklin; Franklin from Tee-Ar to Snowden and Route 27.

"Are these people really qualified to decide the sidewalk question?" asked F. W. Goetz, 85 Magnolia Lane. "I'd like to see an honest count, without a stuffed ballot box."

"Township Committee is open to criticism for dispersing public funds in this patchwork fashion when they should have a five-year plan for sidewalks. I really question the qualifications of these women."

No Funds for a Survey. Samuel Frothingham, Planning Board chairman, told Mr. Goetz that sidewalks were on the Board's long-term agenda. "We have no funds to hire people for such a survey," he told Mr. Goetz. "These women had the time, the interest and the energy, and we encouraged them to go ahead."

THE PUBLIC IS INVITED

As you know, I play many outstanding pictures in my theatre. But only once in a long, long while does one come along that I feel something very, very special about.

I have seen such a picture in CinemaScope and beautiful Color by De Luxe. It is . . .
"A DOG OF FLANDERS"

It stars young David Ladd as "Nello", Donald Crisp as "Grandpa", Theodore Bikel as "The Painter" and "Patrasche", The Wonder Dog.

It gives me great pleasure to be able to recommend a picture which is suitable for and will be enjoyed by every member of your family.

J. Oliver Gluyas, 73 Magnolia Lane, told the Board that, although his lawn was his hobby, he regarded this as irrelevant to his opposition to sidewalks.

"The half-mile-from school limit is illogical," Mr. Gluyas asserted. "People are cautious when they're driving near schools; the farther away you get from a school the more people speed. Besides, kids won't walk on sidewalks just because they're there. If you think sidewalks are important for just one child's life, then the whole Township should have sidewalks."

Mayor R. Kenneth Fairman told Mr. Gluyas the Committee thought the half-mile plan treated the whole community fairly.

James McNamara, 9 Marion Road East, said he had moved to Shady Brook because there were no sidewalks there, and that he thought sidewalks devalued property. Mr. Gluyas agreed.

"If people really believed that sidewalks improved their property, you'd find a line in front of every contractor's door," said Mr. Gluyas. He suggested that, if the Township wanted to lay sidewalks on Magnolia, a nature path for children be built in the rear of his and his neighbors' property instead.

"Who would plow it in winter?" asked Mr. Frothingham.

Gulick An Objector, B. L. Gulick, Jr., Princeton-Kingston Road, said he didn't think that sidewalks made for safety, and he pointed to recent traffic deaths on Washington Road where, he said, "grown men were killed on a street that has sidewalks on both sides."

John Mount, Township Committeeman on the Planning Board, asked the Board to study the sidewalk question and draw up a three-year plan — a "sidewalk package" for 1960, 1961 and 1962. Mr. Frothingham read from Planning Board minutes a passage which explained the Board's policy of requiring sidewalks on both sides of the streets in new developments.

Mrs. Robert E. Navin, 267 Riverside Drive, said "I think it's a shame that the women on that safety committee who worked so hard can't be here to defend themselves." Mr. Frothingham said there would be plenty of opportunity for public hearings on the subject of sidewalks in the Township.

In additional business, the Planning Board gave its approval to PY Construction's plans for 40 houses in the Howe Tract. Plans call for a direct road connecting Prospect and Riverside.

The Board also approved 11 new lots purchased from B. L. Gulick, Jr., by Carl Gelger of Princeton Country Estates. The 11 new houses will be built north of Dodds Lane on Route 27. Approval was also given to the latest addition in the Brookstone development off Rosedale Road — 12 houses.

TALL AND SHORT OF IT: Star performers in Princeton Dog Training Club are "Jeff," poodle owned by Mr. and Mrs. Harold W. Hughes of Hamilton Square, and "Echo," dachshund belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bleakney of 633 Prospect Avenue Extension. The only dogs in club to have earned top "Utility Dog" degree, they pose here with sticks used in official retrieving exercise.

IT'S A SERIOUS BUSINESS

Dog Training, That Is. The air fairly crackled with excitement as everyone anxiously watched the police sergeant in the center of the room. Who would be the next one brought under scrutiny? Would he pass muster, or would the eagle eye of the sergeant discover an error?

This could be a description of a police line-up, or maybe of a class for rookie patrolmen. Actually, however, it's a scene that is taking place each Monday evening at Miss Fine's School Gym, where members of the beginners' class of the Princeton Dog Training Club meet to learn the basic principles of canine obedience.

The instructor, Joseph A. Galassi of New Market, is a sergeant with the New Jersey State Police and a professional dog trainer. He conducts his classes with such crisp authority that even the animals seem to realize that this is a serious business.

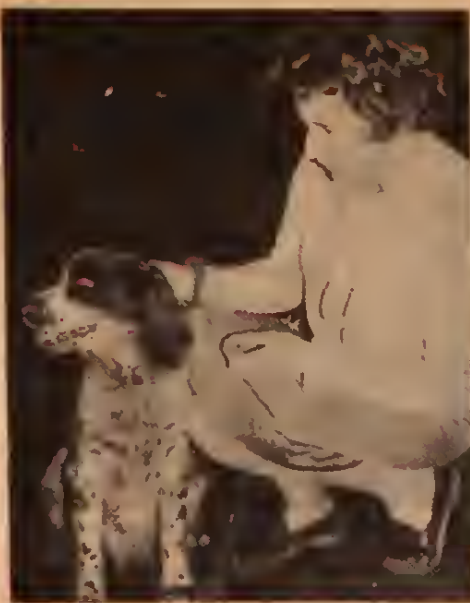

The method works, too. Dogs come into the class with the usual bouncy traits of untrained puppies and, in an amazingly short time, learn to respond to their owners' commands to heel, sit, or stay. As John C. Whitwell of 9 Pardoe Road, another of the club's trainers, explains: "It's really a dual training of both the dog and owner. Our club's principle is 'We train you to train your dog.'"

10 Weeks To Graduation. The course lasts for 10 weeks, and every owner and dog team graduates. Having completed the beginners' course, they are then eligible to go on to perfect the training and earn the various obedience degrees awarded by the American Kennel Club.

There are the AKC obedience degrees. The first, C.D., which stands for "Companion Dog," is awarded for perfect execution in official trials of the fundamental exercises of heeling and staying. Next come C.D.X., or "Companion Dog Excellent," for which the dog must also learn jumping and retrieving.

Top degree is U.D., or "Utility Dog." In order to earn this degree the dog must be able to do all the previously mentioned exercises in response to hand commands rather than voice commands. Only two dogs in the history of Princeton Dog Training Club, which was organized in 1952, have earned this top degree. They are "Jeff," a poodle belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Harold

A MATTER OF TRAINING: The average dog owner has a difficult time making his pet respond to commands and Mrs. W. Hollis Tegarden of 46 Markham Road (left) was no exception when she tried to get "Ivory" to pose for picture before start of class given by Princeton Dog Training Club. After two lessons, all dogs in class had learned to "sit stay," even "Herky," an exceptionally bouncy poodle owned by Mrs. Raymond W. Mitchell (right) of Mt. Lucas Road.

W. Hughes of Hamilton Square, and "Echo," a dachshund owned by Mr. and Mrs. Walker Bleakney of 633 Prospect Avenue Extension.

Each dog's official name now carries the degree at the end, in the same manner as any human who obtains a degree. Thus, Jeff's full name is "Jeffrey Black Knight, U. D.," and Echo's is "Little Babe of Northern Echo, U. D."

Personalities Unchanged. One of the most interesting aspects of the whole training is that the dogs learn to distinguish work from play without changing their natural "doggy" personalities. Jeff, for instance, is the picture of calm efficiency while Mr. Hughes is giving him instructions. But the moment he hears "Okay Jeff, that's all," he turns right

Report from THE MAYOR

Good News for Library. Last week brought several bits of good news for the Public Library. When the trustees met on Wednesday, we learned that the newly-founded termite had not done any serious damage.

Some of them were thoughtful enough to follow standard library procedure—stopping by the circulation desk—where the staff soon decided that they should not be allowed to enjoy the already hard-pressed facilities. The board has authorized a contract for their elimination.

The board also had the relatively good news involved in the report on structural soundness prepared as a service to the library by George Knäffler. While warning that there was no way to expand the library's book stock without real concern for old Bainbridge House, the report indicated that the building was undoubtedly safe under present work loads.

Agreement Reached. The Public Library also was involved in a brief, informal meeting of Borough and Township governing bodies and staff members on Thursday. This session produced an understanding on the general terms of a proposed joint library agreement.

The municipal attorneys will now put the agreement in ordinance form for introduction and public hearing before each governing body. If these ordinances are approved, there would then be a referendum this November to decide the future course of library operation.

Cancer Control. The New Jersey Legislature has adopted a resolution, the Governor has issued a proclamation, and mayors throughout the state have been asked to call attention to the designation of April as Cancer Control Month. Volunteers of the American Cancer Society are conducting a combined educational and fund raising crusade and are anxious to enlist the support of the Princeton community.

Cancer is a cruel disease. It causes more than 9,000 deaths in New Jersey each year. Certainly the people of Princeton will cooperate fully and support generously the life-saving program of research, education and service.

On the Calendar. Last week's schedule was a heavy one, but particularly enjoyable because of its diversity.

It included: an address to the state-wide meeting of the women's auxiliary of the New Jersey Home Builders Association; a welcome to a dinner gathering in celebration of the Jane Addams centennial; a lengthy agenda session of mayor and Council at which 22 items of borough business were considered for action by staff and committees and ultimately by Council itself; three-hour study session of the Planning Board with our professional consultants, nailing down some of the tough decisions on the master plan changes; welcome in the N.J. Chapter of the American Society for Public Administration and their effective speaker on "The Language of Letters," Kermit Rolland; and, on Saturday, the excitement of watching a swarm of youngsters finding the eggs and winning their prizes at the annual Eagles' Easter Egg Hunt.

"Tell It To The Mayor!" The regular weekly open house sessions will be held on Thursday, April 14, and Friday, April 22, from 7 to 10 p.m. at Borough Hall. No appointment is ever necessary for these informal meetings.

Last week's visitors included J. P. Meyer, on behalf of the new Greater Princeton Chamber of Commerce. The tireless and imaginative "J.P." this week completed five years as Bamberger's Princeton manager. More important, each of these five years has found him enthusiastically helping out a host of community enterprises, especially where youth is concerned.

HEY, MOM, LOOK WHAT I WON! Surely any mother would give a welcoming smile to the child who brings home a real live rabbit who obviously wants to make his permanent home with the family. These winners found the silver eggs at Saturday's Easter Egg Hunt, sponsored by Nassau Aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles, and they brought home, if not the bacon, at least the makings for a good stew. Debbie Lowe, 6, top left, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Lowe, 36 Bank, won her second rabbit in two years. (The Lowes also own a Beagle and there is some doubt about the rabbit's ultimate fate.) Frances Strayer, 12, top right, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Paul J. Strayer, 114 Prospect, found not one, but two silver eggs, with foreseeable results. Chris Hagadorn, 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Randall Hagadorn, 32 Jefferson Road, carries his booty home in a box. (The box may be upside down, but the rabbit inside knows which side is up.) (Staff Photos)

PUPPET SHOW SCHEDULED

For YWCA Festival. An outdoor puppet show will be one of the features of the 13th annual YWCA International Festival, to be held Saturday, April 30, at Princeton YWCA, Avalon Place. There will be two performances outdoors in a bright red trailer theatre, one at 10:30 a.m. and another at 3 p.m. For those preferring indoor puppet shows, a third performance will be presented in the Y at 8 p.m.

The show will be Grimm Brothers classic tale, "The Brave Little Tailor." It will be performed by the Rod Young Puppet Theatre, which also conducted last year's show.

Merchandise from all over the world will be on sale at the festival. Areas to be represented are Spain, Malaya, Greece, China, France, the Near East, Mexico, Scotland, India, the Caribbean, and, for local color, Cape Cod.

There will also be an African exhibit and the Y-Teens are planning a surprise package booth. The booth, which will feature a balloon lady, will sell items ranging in price from 10 cents to $3.

Mr. Spaw, who operates his own atelier for binding and restoration work, is also retained as consultant by Princeton University and the Free Public Library of Philadelphia. He will illustrate his talk with slides showing some of his work. Hostesses in charge of the meeting will be Mr. Jan Raichman and Mrs. William W. Smith, assisted by Mrs. Richard Dearborn, Mrs. Victor Lange, Mrs. Marion Search, Mrs. J. Barclay Rosser, Mrs. William Holt and Mrs. James E. Breath.

LEAGUE TO PLAN PROGRAM

At Meeting Next Thursday. The proposed local program of the Princeton League of Women Voters for the coming year will be brought up for approval at the league's annual meeting, to be held next Thursday, April 21, at 8:30 p.m. at First Presbyterian Church. The meeting will be preceded by a supper at 6:45 p.m. for which reservations, at $1.50 each, should be made with Mrs. William Hooke, 28 Hamilton Avenue.

The proposed local program is "A continued evaluation of Princeton's Master Plans, working toward (1) an intensified study of various aspects, and (2) promotion of citizen participation in planning for Princeton's future." This will be a continuation of the LWV's current local program.

Members will also be asked to vote on revisions in the "Continuing Responsibilities" program and on changes in the by-laws. The proposed budget, as presented by Miss Helen Fairbanks and her committee, will also be brought up for approval.

A slate of officers for the coming year will be submitted by the nominating committee, which includes Mrs. Sam Treiman, chairman; Mrs. David J. Brodsky and Mrs. Bevin Smith. Candidates are: Mrs. Martin Schwartzschild, president; Mrs. William H. Angoff, second vice president; Mrs. Thomas Harvey, secretary, and Mrs. J. A. Buckland, treasurer.

Nominated as candidates for the board of directors are Mrs. Robert Danielson, Mrs. Melvin Gottlieb, Mrs. John K. Hemphill, Mrs. Stefan A. Ochs, and Mrs. Gino Treves.

UN. TO BE TOPIC

At Kiwanis Meeting. The problems faced by the United Nations today will be discussed by Dr. Harold Korn, Canadian author and scientist, at a meeting of the Princeton Kiwanis Club to be held this Thursday at the Nassau Inn.

Dr. Korn is presently associated with the United Nations as a member of the policy-making group controlling UN actions in world government and international politics. He is the author of several books on the field of population and international economics.

BOOK SALE DATE SET

Scheduled for April 27, 28, 29. The annual Book Sale sponsored by the Bryn Mawr College Club will be held Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, April 27, 28 and 29, at Second Presbyterian Church. All proceeds will go to the club's Scholarship Fund.

Since 1960 is the 75th anniversary of the founding of Bryn Mawr College, local alumnae are hoping to make this a banner year for the Book Sale. The sale netted $2,316 last year, as compared with $191 made in the first sale in 1931.

More than 30 girls from this area have received scholarships from the proceeds of past sales, and several others have been given partial aid. At the present time there are two girls attending Bryn Mawr on scholarships from the Book Sale, one from Pennington and one from New Brunswick.

Thousands of secondhand volumes change hands every year in the sale. It has become such an anticipated event in Princeton that Bryn Mawr alumnae are called at various times throughout the year to collect someone's unwanted books and store them until sale time.

10 cents to $10. Prices range from 10 cent to $10. Expert advice on valuable books is given by Laurence Heyl of the Firestone Library and Halsey Thomas of the Columbia Library. All books remaining on the last day are sold at half-price.

Mrs. Raymond Carter and Mrs. John Claghorn are co-chairmen of this year's sale. Volunteer workers are being organized by Mrs. Michael Sherman, Mrs. Alden Blodget and Mrs. Peter Anson are in charge of publicity.

may like the idea of getting right down where they are, with aqua lung and a full-face mask with slanted lens that prevents neck strain during ascent, and lead belt (that's a "led" belt, you tender-foot; not a "lead" belt) to keep you down once you're there, or you may prefer to stay topside and let the fish come to you.

In any case, it's the season. Fly fishermen will flock to Tiger's newest gadget: a split-shot gun which attaches shot perfectly every single time and removes them without damaging your line. Costs $3.95 and weighs less than a pair of pliers.

Tiger has, of course, a complete line of tackle for every fisherman from little minnows in the first grade up to grandpa reeling them in from the surf. Spinning poles, tackle for fresh or salt water and the most glittering, hypnotizing collection of lures: Bottom Bumpers, Spinning Lures, "Dying Flutter", wriggle worms (let's give one to mommie), salmon eggs and Hula Skirts.

There are tackle boxes starting at $1.98 and going up to $13.95, blue, orange or green in unbreakable plastic, or aluminum. Hip boots here look as though they were made for basketball players. Anybody have hips that high?

are other sports besides fishing. We haven't even touched on the baseball and softball equipment. Let's just say that Tiger has three 12-foot shelves of mits and let it go at that.

Roll 'm Up. Evan-Picone sends to the women's department of The English Shop a collection of spring-weight shirts in the stripes and floral patterns of a new season. There's a roll-up sleeve with lilac and blue and white stripes in dacron and pima cotton. Wear with it a lilac skirt which has a single deep pleat beginning about six inches down from the waistline.

Picoted stripes (not really: the picoted effect is just printed on) in blue, orchid, tan and white make up another shirt. The olive, gold and tan combination is a variation.

You'll look twice at Lady Hathaway's hopsacking golf shirt with roll-up sleeves and an over-your-head opening, topped with a flaring collar. Comes in tropical shades of olive, lilac, citron, orange and so on.

Long sleeves have been used on a striking cotton shirt of batik print. A similar shirt is made of silk stripes. Madras appears in a print, for a refreshing change: Look at the English Shop's new Madras shirts in shades of dull gold, mustard or olive gently scribbled on with black stencils.

The two-piece dress is a warm weather favorite here. A Moygashel nubbed linen skirt in steel blue, coral or lilac has a printed top in which the skirt color predominates and natural linen provides the complement. The print is faintly Greek, with the familiar key and lyre. Blouse is sleeveless with round collar.

Another two-piecer is miniature black and white plaid with full, sharp box pleated skirt and a short-sleeved top with choir-boy collar. A two-piece hopsacking with collarless box jacket combines stripes which deepen from natural to a deep grey-brown.

Rose Marie Reid invites you to swim in a plain black lastex tank suit, or a less severe garment in sea-blue with three-inch-wide diagonal tucks meeting in front to form a slenderizing silhouette. How about the two-piece suit in green, blue and cream flowers? Not a Bikini (in The English Shop?) but no Mother Hubbard either.

Stained glass mixtures of blues, greens and rose have been used in many of these bathing suits to achieve an effect which is cheerful and colorful but not outrageously dazzling.

MUSIC In Princeton

SYMPHONY ENDS SEASON

Unusual Program Well Received. On Monday night in McCarter Theatre, the Princeton Symphony, Nicholas Harsanyi, conductor, presented its third and final concert in its 1969-1970 season. The small, but eager and interested audience heard a program unusual in content, contrasting the familiar and the unfamiliar, the dramatic and the subtle.

The work which seemed to attract the greatest interest and curiosity by far was Roger Sessions' "Idyll of Theocritus," for soprano and orchestra. The ancient Greek poem, which, in the rich Trevelyan translation, was chosen as the text, carries one to the heights of almost violent emotional intensity.

One might almost have wished for appropriate stage setting and lighting to heighten the supernatural atmosphere so vividly created by the entire work. The score itself is indeed difficult to perform, and exacts from singer and orchestra alike the utmost in energy and concentration. Janice Harsanyi, the soloist for this performance, and Mr. Sessions, who conducted his own work, were recalled to the stage several times by a most appreciative audience.

After the intermission, Mr. Harsanyi came to the podium to conduct the remaining portion of the program, which included Erik Satie's "Deux Gymnopédies," orchestrated by Debussy and Liszt's "Les Preludes." Satie's music is not so frequently heard on the concert stage nowadays, for the reason, perhaps, that much of it is of "salon" delicacy.

A founding father of a group of French composers, "Les Six," which emerged in Paris shortly after World War I, Satie's compositional creed was a reaction to the ostentation of the Romantic period in music. His love of simplicity, coupled with a touch of ironic sophistication, is quite evident in his music, which is cool and suave, with just a touch of restrained sensuousness. It was indeed pleasing and refreshing to hear two of his pieces on this program.

In conclusion, the orchestra gave its all in the Liszt work - an old "blood and thunder" standby in orchestral literature, but dearly loved by a majority of concertgoers. Mr. Harsanyi and the orchestra were warmly applauded, not only for the great amount of work devoted to this concert, but also for their fine showing throughout their current season. It is hoped that the Princeton Symphony Orchestra may be heard more frequently, if possible, next year, for its contribution to the cultural life of the Princeton community, and especially its support of contemporary music, continues to be of great value.

CHAPEL CHOIR TO SING

Easter Sunday Afternoon. The Princeton University Chapel Choir will give a concert Sunday at 3:30 p.m. in the University Chapel.

Carl Weinrich will direct. Included on the program will be compositions by Beeson, Byrd, Handel, Hassler, Lassus, Nanino, Palestrina, Schubert and Schutz.

SHEARING WILL PLAY

Jazz Quintet Coming Here. George Shearing and his quintet will play on Friday, May 6, in Alexander Hall under the auspices of the Princeton Entertainment Bureau. This is a branch of the University's Bureau of Student Aid and it is managed by John Craig of C-K Productions.

Shearing, recently featured as soloist with the Rochester Civic Symphony in both classical and jazz compositions, is a pianist with a thorough musical education in the classics as well as considerable inventiveness in the field of modern jazz.

Tickets are on sale at the University Store. They will be sold by sections at $2.10, $2.95 and $3.50.

the Princeton Pastors Association, has issued a statement expressing the Association's endorsement of the Education for Marriage course being sponsored by the Planned Parenthood Committee of Princeton.

"Even in this presumably 'enlightened' era," the Rev. Mr. Crawford said, "too many friends suppose that emotional attachment can suffice to cover unpreparedness. The schedule for all the evenings in the Education for Marriage series indicates how aware the Planned Parenthood Committee is that the psychic, spiritual, economic and physical factors of the marriage relationship are so intertwined that to leave any area to chance is to endanger all."

The course will open next Tuesday at 8:15 p.m. at the "Y" Building on Avalon Place and engaged persons or newly-weds who wish to enroll may do so at that time. Subsequent classes will be held on succeeding Tuesdays at the same time and place. Registration for the course is $2 per person.

The first lecture will be "After the Honeymoon — the Road Ahead," by Dr. Helen Daniels. The other lectures are: "When Love Is Not Enough," Dr. Jessie Bernard and Mrs. Hazel Froscher; "Giving Your Marriage Something to Stand On," Dr. Ernest Gordon; "The Anatomy of Sex," Dr. Lillian Tenney and Dr. David Rose; and a final summing up on May 17.

"Chain Letters" for Lotteries

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

I have read Mrs. Shellabarger's letter in your paper with great interest, regarding a "National" or "State Lottery". I fully agree with her, and wish to give her my support on this issue.

We do not need a state income or state sales tax. What we need is a "State Lottery."

Let us all rally together and join a "Lottery Wagon," and ride into Governor Meyner's mansion, by bombarding him with your letters urging him to make legislation in congress, or make a referendum to be put on the ballot, that we may all vote on it in the November election, the same as we did for the bingo and raffles.

Put New Jersey on the map, as being the first state in the union to have a "State Lottery."

I am starting a chain letter by writing to three of my friends. The first one I am sending to Mrs. Shellabarger, hoping she will cooperate and continue this issue with me by writing three letters to three of her friends.

If you do not receive a chain letter, write one yourself to the Governor.

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

I noticed in TOWN TOPICS your squib on the Gateway Playhouse and their need for apprentices. I would appreciate a similar piece on my theatre, the Cape Cod Melody Tent in Hyannis on Cape Cod, Mass.

I am looking for apprentices (male & female) and technicians (props, lights, and carpenters). The former need no experience;

the latter need considerable experience. I manage this 1,375-seat arena-style musical theatre, one of the oldest of its type in the country. We do seven shows, starting July 1 and ending on Labor Day. This year our list includes "Carousel," "Pajama Game," "Show Boat," "South Pacific," "Plain and Fancy," "The Student Prince" and "West Side Story."

We use a professional Equity company with "name" stars. However, most of our technical staff is non-union. Apprentices pay no fee, receive no pay, but learn the workings of all aspects of the profession under professional theatre people. Their living expenses are moderate.

Those who are interested should call me at TWIN OAKS 6-0103 for an appointment or write to me in care of the Dawes House, Lawrenceville, New Jersey.

Congressman Backs Case.

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

New Jersey's primary election occurs on April 19. At that time a Republican candidate for U.S. Senator will be chosen. I am fully confident that Senator Clifford P. Case will be renominated.

Why should Republicans back Cliff Case? First, he has had a record of two decades of distinguished public service, including nine years as a U.S. Representative, and he is now completing his sixth year as a U.S. Senator. In this connection, former Senator H. Alexander Smith has paid high tribute to our present senior Senator. Experience is a great asset, and Senator Case has proven himself a man of exceptional ability, intelligence and integrity, with unusual independence and soundness of judgment.

Secondly, Cliff Case deserves support because his public record shows him to be a man truly representative of all the people whom he represents. As a member of Congress I recognize that criticism from some source can be developed against any public official's position on certain issues and votes. Inevitably, if we accept our full responsibilities, we must occasionally take positions which may not be popular among all members of our own party. However, Senator Case has been a staunch supporter of the Eisenhower Administration in the Senate.

One has only to check such independent sources as the Congressional Quarterly and the New York Times for proof of this. His record of 83.6 percent support of President Eisenhower's programs is the highest, over the full five-year period of their terms, of any Republican Senator running for reelection this November.

Thirdly, I admire Senator Case's insistence on staying on the job in Washington during this recent primary campaign. Other Senators vying for public attention have been less concerned about their legislative responsibilities. As a result, Senator Case has been obliged to campaign under certain disadvantages as compared to his opponent.

Before voting, I am sure Republicans will weigh all facts, and vote for the better man - Clifford P. Case.

PETER FRELINGHUYSEN, JR.
Washington, D. C.

Smith Urged to Back Morris.

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

Following is a copy of a letter sent to H. Alexander Smith:

"In your widely-published letter, you call the Morris campaign 'negative.'"

For the first time in many years, New Jersey Republicans have the opportunity to nominate a candidate who staunchly stands for the basic principles of fiscal sanity and consequent preservation of individual freedom and human dignity.

Is it, in your opinion, a negative thing that men and women of New Jersey are joining forces by the thousands; giving of their time and wealth, in some cases at great personal sacrifice, and working together for the purpose of giving all the people of New Jersey a chance to vote in November for a man who represents, I believe, the views of the majority?

Perhaps, ex-Senator Smith, you have been away so long that you have lost touch with "grass-roots" America.

I urge you to reconsider and vote for Morris and let Case join Senator Morse where he belongs.

Age of Anxiety Defended.

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

It would be comical, were it not fundamentally tragic — the way in which Mr. Erich Millmose begs space to protest against a work he feels should not have equal right to be heard. Mr. Millmose is indeed fortunate in being able to determine who deserves salvation and who does not.

From the rather unctious tone of the letter, he would no doubt include himself in the former group. Most of us are not that lucky.

We do what we can on this earth, to the best of our abilities, trying to hurt as few of our fellow beings as possible. I is always frightening to see attitudes which we have come to identify with the Dark Ages, rear their ugly heads.

Mr. Millmose, to put it mildly, does not like Aulen's "Age of Anxiety." He is free to his opinion. But that is where it should end. And he would do well to recall a powerful statement of a truly enlightened individual: "I may not agree with what you say, but I will defend to the death your right to say it."

Annie Oakley for Millmoss.

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

We have seen a wonderfully ambitious production of "Oedipus Rex." I wonder what Mr. Erich Millmoss (Town Topics, April 10-16) will have to say about it. Certainly he does not take a benign view of the anticipated "Age of Anxiety."

The spelling differs, but can this gentleman be kin to James Thurber's celebrated Dr. Millmoss? These are dismal mutterings from some dark place.

Is to cry in the wilderness, indeed! To see "Age of Anxiety" is to clap hands.

I will forgive nihilistic, excuse abhorred. But untimely? This anxious and uncertain age is much with us. One of the fascinations of the poem, whose frame I concede is mildly threatening, is that it is open to varying interpretations.

I choose to see within a gentle fable of loneliness and the difficulty of personal articulation and communication in these rancid and aggressive times. Eloquent and moving passages of language conclude with a magnificent affirmation of the ultimate security of man.

Far from being condemned, I believe the undergraduates of Princeton University should be commended for their courage in giving an experimental staging—before Oxford and Cambridge, before Harvard and Yale—to this profound and cerebral legend.

I will leave it to its audience to decide if Mr. Auden in "Age of Anxiety" is not more cogent and coherent than was Mr. T. S. Eliot in "The Cocktail Party." So much for Mr. Millmoss's reference to muddled, turgid drama.

If critic Millmoss, more morbid than mordaunt, will step to the box office the night of April 28, it will be Theatre Intime's pleasure to prove him wrong.

GRAHAM FERGUSON

Cook on Fluoridation.

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

In view of the unusual interest on fluoridation, I shall appreciate your carrying in full my reasons for opposing the resolution introduced at the April 4th meeting of the Princeton Township Committee:

"After careful consideration of all arguments for and against the proposed resolution to recommend fluoridation of the Princeton water supply, I have decided to vote against the resolution.

"It does appear that the weight of medical and scientific opinion today holds that the addition of fluoride to the public water supply will substantially reduce, though by no means eliminate, the incidence of dental caries in children, and that there is no definite evidence of harmful, long range effects from fluoridation. Nevertheless, there is some authoritative opinion that fluoridation may be harmful to at least some people in the long run, and that further research and studies should be done before the safety of the program can reasonably be assured. It should also be observed that various problems in the administration of the program have induced a number of communities to discontinue it; that the intake of fluoride from the public water supply will vary tremendously between individuals; that there is substantial opposition to fluoridation in Princeton; and that there are other methods of tackling the problem of decay in children's teeth, including the use of fluoride tablets by individual families as desired.

"In this posture of the matter, I believe that individual freedom of choice should be allowed to prevail. The function of a water supply is to provide pure, safe water for everyone, not to medicate a portion of the population. I do not think that all persons should be practically forced to drink water with sodium fluoride or any other added chemical in it except such chemicals that are needed to make it safe and potable. Personal liberty should be invaded only where an urgent public need justifies it. Such need is not present when:

"(1) The proposed compulsory method will only partially solve the problem;

"(2) The possible harmful effects of the program are not positively known;

"(3) A substantial segment of the population do not want the measure; and

"(4) There are other ways of pursuing the objective.

"I cannot subscribe to the view that everyone should be obliged to drink fluoridated water because, if left to our own devices, some of us will not do what the majority of experts say is good for us. If that reasoning were accepted, the government might as well improve the general health by prescribing our diet, limiting our cigarettes and requiring a certain amount of sleep and exercise.

In short, those who want fluoridation can get it on an individual basis by tablets or dental treatments as desired. I find no adequate reason for recommending to the water company that those who do not want fluoride shall, nevertheless, have it forced down their throats.

On the other hand, the furnishing of fluoride tablets to school children upon request, or any other sound public health measure based upon voluntary acceptance of medication by individuals, will receive my active support."

TIGER NINE ROLLING

Record Now 5-1. A baseball team that never got a minute's practice outdoors before going south in the wintry month of March is off to one of the best starts credited to a Princeton nine within memory. Short of infield work, needing batting practice and lacking experienced pitchers in near total-fashion, the Tigers have run through the early opposition in surprising fashion.

Since blistering Elon and Georgetown while losing to North Carolina State in the south, they have returned home to defeat Rutgers, Lafayette and City College of New York. Rutgers and Lafayette, losers by respective scores of 7-5 and 6-2, rank more often than not with the top teams in the East. C.C.N.Y. was trimmed on Monday, 8 to 2.

Princeton will meet Seton Hall on University Field Saturday at 2:30, traveling to New York on Tuesday for its Eastern League opener against Columbia. Dartmouth will be here a week from Saturday as the Tigers' first league opponent at home.

hitting well, getting good pitching performances and, possibly best of all, playing well defensively despite chill and windy weather. Navy, the 1959 champion with an 8-1 mark while the Tigers were breaking even in eight games, remains the favorite to repeat, but the Orange and Black appears set to make a bid for the title despite gloomy pre-season predictions.

C.C.N.Y. Fifth Victim. The Tigers 101st baseball season—and last at University Field—was played Monday afternoon before a crowd of less than 100 as chill breezes made spectator enjoyment a near-frigid matter. The weather apparently also affected three C.C.N.Y. pitchers, who issued a combined total of 15 walks to make things easy for the high-riding Princetonians.

The Tigers actually collected one less hit than they did runs, but seven passes combined with two safeties in the second round produced six tallies. With Wally Phillips mowing the opposition down in easy fashion, the contest was sewed up early—but nonetheless went the nine-inning distance despite gathering dusk and dipping temperature.

Elmer Naples and Jack Whitehouse walked to open the second, Pete Crispo's booming double to left center chasing both across. Four more free tickets followed before Captain Mike Ippolito relieved the monotony by slashing a single through the hole at short.

A double to right by Bill MacMillan drove Bob Myslik home in the fifth, and in the eighth Ippolito collected an inside-the-park home run. His tremendous shot, hit into a stiff wind, cleared the center-fielder's head and rolled to a distance of better than 400 feet.

Once again, good fielding support made the pitcher's job easy, as the Tigers were guilty of a lone misplay. Phillips' nine-inning stint was the third credited to the Tiger pitching staff in six games.

At Easton, Pa., Saturday afternoon, southpaw Dave Douglas picked up his second victory of the year with a route-going eight-hit performance against Lafayette. Four unearned runs in the third gave the Tigers all the margin they needed, but they added another pair in the fifth as catcher Elmer Naples drove three across the plate.

Bill McMillan, now installed at first base after seeing action as a catcher and at short, continued to hit well with a pair of safeties, while second baseman Pete Crispo also banged out a pair of hits. Two double plays that sophomore shortstop Jack Whitehouse launched helped control the Leop-

Hole in One Comes Early

The first hole in one of the 1960 season on the Springdale Golf Course was made Saturday by Wiley Critz on the 190-yard par 3 ninth. Critz, former assistant dean of the chapel at Princeton University and now associated with the Nassau Street firm of American Business Executives, used a number three wood to hole his tee shot.

The drive actually landed a foot beyond the cup, but had backspin and trickled into the hole. Playing with him at the time were Kline Fulmer and William Talmadge.

Just before Critz drove, Howard Stepp and Dr. Robert Goheen, playing behind the threesome, came to the tee. Seconds after Dr. Goheen commented, "Now let's watch a real pro show us how to do it," Critz had neatly demonstrated how to make a hole in one.

ards, who could nick Douglas only for single runs in the fourth and ninth.

Rutgers Trimmed in Cold. The hilltop diamond at New Brunswick provided a wind-blown 40-degree setting for last Wednesday's contest with Rutgers, which last April trimmed the Tigers there, 5-3. This time, lefthander Wally Phillips saw his mates break up a 3-3 tie with a four-run outburst in the top of the eighth and go on to win, 7-5.

Centerfielder Mike Devine, the other sophomore with Whitehouse to earn a starting position, produced the big blow, a solid bases-loaded triple that he clouted to left center. These three rbis added to another that he produced by drawing a walk in the second with the bases filled gave the newcomer a big afternoon.

OTHER SPORTS

Lacrosse Team Loses, 8-4. Staying within two goals of powerful Johns Hopkins until the final period, Princeton's lacrosse team saw the Bluejays' greater experience make the difference Saturday afternoon on University Field. After trailing, 4-3, at the intermission, the Tigers drew even at 4-all, only to see the visitors add four more in the final 20 minutes to triumph, 8-4.

A veteran first-line attack won for Hopkins as the visitors' starting lineup was credited with all their goals. Phil Allen, Dan Sachs, Mike Burton and Captain Bob Milling were credited with the Princeton scoring, while goal—Continued on Page 30

Question of the Week

Question: What teams do you think will meet in the World Series next fall and what other teams will complete the first divisions in the major leagues?

Where Asked: Around town.

Chris Farley, Varsity Avenue, Penns Neck, Hun School junior: The Yankees in the American League because I say that every year and I really believe that the trade in which the Yanks got Maris and Hadley will help them a lot. Their pitching may still be a question mark, though. In the National League, it'll be close between Milwaukee and the Giants but I'll have to say the Braves because the Giants have too many rookies and didn't do too well in the stretch. Also Milwaukee will be helped by Dressen. I'd put the Dodgers in fourth place and Cincinnati, third, behind the Giants. I'll pick the White Sox, Cleveland and Boston to finish behind the Yankees.

Paul Tukey, 287 Walnut Lane, Hun School sophomore: The Dodgers ought to win because they have the same team they did last year plus some good rookies like Tommy Davis. Cleveland should win if Herb Score can win and if Temple hits like he did at Cincinnati. It ought to be Chicago behind Cleveland, the Yankees, third, and Baltimore or Detroit, fourth. In the National League, it should be the Giants, second; Milwaukee, third and Pittsburgh, fourth.

Larry Healey, 49 Alken Avenue, proprietor, Durner's barber shop: I'm going to pick the White Sox and Dodgers again this year. I think these two teams are better balanced than the rest, just as they were last year. Of course, LA got a lot of help last summer, especially from Pittsburgh, which knocked off the Giants and Milwaukee for them. The way I see it, it is going to be a close, tough season all the way through. The Yankees don't have anything this year and will be lucky to stay in the first division. After the Dodgers, it will probably be Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and the Cubs, with St. Louis possibly nosing out the Cubs for fourth place. In the American League, the Red Sox will be runners-up, followed by Detroit and then the Yanks.

Thomas Brophy, 25 Gulick Road, president, Brophy's Footwear: I think the White Sox will win it again. The Roy Sievers trade helped them a lot. They won it last year without him and I can't see any other team that is better than the Sox are now. Behind Chicago, it will probably be Cleveland, the Yankees and Detroit. In the National League, I figure it will be the Giants followed by Los Angeles, Milwaukee and Cincinnati.

Miss Dora Langer, 166 Nassau Street, office secretary: It should be between the White Sox and the Giants. Following the Giants, I'd pick the Braves, then the Dodgers, with Cincinnati probably ending up in fourth place. Baltimore, Cleveland and the Yankees to complete the first division in the American League.

Charles Simone, 828 Kingston Road, shoe salesman for Huh's:

Picking the Winners

Forecasting the pennant winners in the major leagues is a popular pastime, but no easy assignment. It wasn't so hard two years ago, when six of the eight baseball fans interviewed by TOWN TOPICS followed form in correctly naming the New York Yankees and the Milwaukee Braves.

Last spring, however, ten brave souls also followed form—and form went down the drain as the Chicago White Sox won their first pennant in 40 years and the Los Angeles Dodgers rose from seventh to first place. Not one of the ten answering 1959's Question of the Week picked either team first.

This year, there are numerous different combinations suggested for the World Series. In all, three American League teams (the Yankees, White Sox, Indians) are given a chance to finish first, while National League choices include the Giants, Braves, Dodgers and Cardinals.)

The Yankees in the American League. They have the manpower and I think their pitching will be a lot better this year. Detroit, second; Chicago, third and Cleveland, fourth. With that hitting, Chicago should have never won last year. In the National League, Milwaukee has the most stable team. They have good pitching and I think they'll come back and take it. Next should be Los Angeles, San Francisco and Pittsburgh.

Samuel W. Stevenson, 224-C King Street, graduate student in romance languages: I like the Dodgers again because they are a young and experienced team. They should be good for a number of years to come. In the American League, the Yankees, mainly because they are cutting—Continued on Page 30 a few salaries which should wake the team up a little bit. Behind the Yanks I'll pick the White Sox, Detroit, and Boston. The Braves, Pirates, and Giants should be two, three and four in the National League.

Willie Wade, 24 Leigh Avenue, Quadrangle Club waiter: On the basis of a stronger pitching staff, I think the Cardinals will win in the National League and I look for Chicago to repeat in the American. The Dodgers, Braves and Pittsburgh to complete the first division in the National, and Cleveland, Boston and the Yankees, in that order, in the American League.

George Kirby, Laurel Avenue, University mail department foreman: With the power the White Sox have and with their pitching, I favor them in the American League. I don't see how anybody can beat them. In the National League, it's a toss-up between the Dodgers and Giants. Both have power and pitching. I guess I'll have to go along with the champs and take the Dodgers. Milwaukee should finish third, with Cincinnati, which may be the league's dark horse, fourth. Trailing Chicago will probably be Cleveland, with the Yankees and Detroit fighting it out for third, the loser ending up in fourth.

Robert King, 89 Birch Avenue, First National Bank guard: As a prejudiced Dodger fan, I pick LA to win in the National League and I kind of look for the Yankees to come back in the American League. Rounding out the first division in back of the Dodgers will be the Giants, Milwaukee and the Phils. Boston, Chicago, and Kansas City in the American League.

John O'Neill, Somerville, Princeton Borough parking meter mechanic: In the American League, I believe that the White Sox will win again. The National league is rough. I like the Cards myself but I think the Giants will take it. They have good pitching and good players. The White Sox have good pitching, too, but are weak on power which is no secret to anyone. My guess is that Detroit, Baltimore and Cleveland will finish in that order behind Chicago. The Braves, Cardinals and Pirates should round out the National League. I pick the Dodgers to drop back to the second division this season.

Michael A. Hewitt, 92 Holder Hall, University student: I pick the Giants on the basis of their performance of last year, and the Yankees to come back in the American League. My second, third, and fourth choices in each league would be Chicago, Detroit and Baltimore, and Milwaukee, Los Angeles and Pittsburgh.

Charles Corrigan, Plaza Court, Trenton, Hult's shoe salesman: The White Sox to repeat and Milwaukee in the National League. The White Sox have just got it. Behind the Sox: the Yankees, Cleveland, and Detroit. After Milwaukee, I'd take the Giants, Pirates and the Dodgers.

ie Al Krongard turned in a good game on defense. Another strong opponent, Navy, will provide the opposition this Saturday at Annapolis.

Princeton's tennis and golf teams won easily, racking up respective 9-0 and 5-2 victories over Brown and Colgate. The golfers were plagued by chill, gusty blasts on Springdale's links but Colgate's number one man, Don Allen, still managed to shoot a fine two-over-par 74 in winning, 2 and 1.

The tennis team plays Williams here Saturday at 2:30, with the golfers entertaining Lehigh at 1:30. Princeton's 150-lb. crews will make their 1960 debut against Columbia on the Harlem River, but the heavyweight oarsmen and the track team remain out of action until April 23.

BOWLING NOTES

Most Leaders Hold Position. The Rookies (56) continued to hold a one-point edge over Shelton Motors in the "A" League, as most Princeton league leaders remained in first place last week. The only exception was in the see-saw Faculty League where Physics (59) regained a three-point lead over Machine Development. Prince Laundro had a six-point edge over Shelton Motors. —Continued on Page 31

COME ON IN, THE WATER'S FINE! The opening of the 1960 fishing season on Saturday brought out almost everybody in Princeton, including the fish. Stony Brook was lined with eager sportsmen who reported that fishing was better than they had anticipated. Most streams in the state had been running at flood levels during the week and they were still high—and cold. Ray Podlesney, 16, (left) 1028 Indiana Avenue, Trenton, caught six fish in Stony Brook between the time the season opened officially at 8 a.m. and the time he stopped, two hours later. In other league action, Tiger Garage continued to pace the Industrial League with a four-point margin over second-place Wengryn Construction (38); Tiger Bus (75) led Nassau Del by four points in the Women's loop; and Cifelli's (57) was ahead of Deckers (51) and Anthony's (48) in the Women's Industrial League. The Hendersons (28) increased their lead over Rose and Fowler, with 22 each, in the Mixed League.

The Top individual game of the week went to Pete Wengryn with a 254 in the Industrial League. He also added a 202 game in the same series. Other notable scores included Pete Hinkson, 231; Jake Emmons, 230; and Bill Dumble, 212, in the "A" League; Fred Souders, 228, and Hank Balfour, 21w, in the "A" League; Fred Reardon, 228, in the Faculty League; and Dave Cifelli, 232, and George Letteli, 222, in the "B" loop.

Betty Kleiber rolled the high women's score with a 224 in the Women's Industrial League. She was followed in the same loop by Sarah Huneycutt, 194; Sue D'Are-gelo, 192; Eleanor Mansue, 181; and Betty Frazee and Marilyn Silvester, 180 each. Betty Harris topped the Women's League with 213, followed by Betty Snyder, 194; Helen Scott, 192; and Bernice Crisologo, 185. In the Mixed League, Dot Wheeler rolled three 134 games, making her eligible for the American Bowling Congress' "Triplicate Club."

SPORTS CAR RALLY HELD

For Second Year Here, Larry and Helen Hough, of Westport, Conn., won the three-day New Jersey "500" sports car rally held here last weekend, with a total error of 121 seconds. It was the first national rally of the season in the East, and the second straight year in which it was held in Princeton.

Driving a Mercedes Benz 190, the Houghs amassed only 20 seconds of error in the 50-mile reliability test on Sunday. In the earlier two phases, they drove 210 miles on Friday through the Delaware River section in New Jersey and Pennsylvania, and 290 miles of mountain, valley and meadow country on Saturday, and had 101 points against them.

All phases of the competition required precision running to the second at both open and hidden checkpoints. The Princeton reliability test required the rallyists to keep to the second through seven hidden controls. Top score on this part was 11 seconds of error.

Frederick Gilson, of South Norwalk, and Alex Thompson, of Southport, Conn., driving a Porsche, finished in second place with an aggregate of 137 points. The third place finishers, Suzanne Hundermark, of Lyndhurst, Ohio, and Robert Mollman, of Bedford Heights, Ohio, totalled 138 points.

GOLF COURSE OPEN

Using 15 Playable Holes, The Mountain View Golf Course is presently using 15 playable holes, after having remained open all winter. Richard J. Coffee, Director of the Mercer County Recreation Department, said that play has been temporarily rearranged so that three holes are played twice.

Formal opening of the 1960 season has been set for about May 1. At that time, the three newly constructed holes will be placed in operation, Mr. Coffee said. He also noted that early-season play this year is far exceeding that of last year.

CASE DRAWS CROWD

To Hear His Pre-Primary Talk. Senator Clifford P. Case discussed his philosophy of government and defended his record on Sunday night before an overflow crowd in the Princeton Inn. He is seeking re-nomination and re-election as U.S. Senator.

The meeting was sponsored by the combined Princeton Republican Clubs, which had sponsored the appearance of Senator Case's opponent, Robert Morris, in a Princeton Inn talk the week before.

Former Senator H. Alexander Smith, honorary director of Mr. Case's campaign, introduced the Senator. In his talk, Senator Case covered a variety of subjects including the space program. He is a member of the National Space Committee.

Thomas P. Cook, chairman of the Princeton Committee for Case's Re-nomination and Re-election has announced additional members of the Committee. They are David H. McAlpin, William G. Sword, Robert A. Benham, Frank Perna, Mrs. James M. Gattling and Mrs. L. T. Getty. Those who are interested in joining the group may do so by communicating with Mr. Cook at 201 Nassau Street.

CANVASSING BEGUN

For Senatorial Campaign. House-to-house canvassing was begun last weekend by members of the Princeton Committee for Robert Morris, one of two Republican candidates for New Jersey Senator. Princeton University's campus Republican Club, which recently endorsed Mr. Morris is assisting in the campaign.

Mrs. Walter L. Wright, 137 Patton Avenue, was named Women's vice-chairman of the Morris Committee. Other vice-chairmen include Harry A. Farr and Dilman M. K. Smith.

Robert L. Clifford, Morris Committee chairman, said that the committee has been joined by a number of the regular Republican committeemen in Princeton. They wish to see their party offer in November a candidate for the Senate who takes a clear-cut stand on economic issues and appeals to Republican and independent voters alike. Mr. Clifford said.

Mr. Clifford pointed out that Mr. Morris is for the reduction of non-essential spending in Washington, on such items as airports, housing, peacetime GI benefits and farm subsidies, because he feels it is inflationary. The candidate, he said, is against Senator Case's support of "welfare state" spending measures and his continuing partisanship to labor unions.

FUND ADDS NEW MEMBER

Catholic Agency Approved. The Board of Trustees of the United Community Fund has approved the inclusion of the Catholic Welfare Bureau of Trenton as a member of the Fund.

The Council of Community Services had previously recommended that this organization, which serves area residents without regard to race or creed, be considered for admission to the Fund.

MOVE UP TO 1960's OILHEAT

ADD

DOLLAR VALUE TO YOUR HOME

When you buy or build a home, you want to be sure of two things:

1. Is it right for your family?
2. Does it have a good resale value?

1960's OILHEAT saves you money—through lower fuel bills—while you live there. But that's only half the story. 1960's OILHEAT adds dollar value to your home should you put it on the market. It is a fact that home buyers are willing to pay more for a house that has MODERN OILHEAT.

When you buy or build, remember "Quality starts with your heating unit!" 1960's OILHEAT means your home has more value to you . . . more value to prospective buyers. Insist on 1960's OILHEAT when you buy or build. It's an investment.

RAMBLER AMERICAN CUSTOM WINS OVER ALL COMPACTS WITH 28.35 M.P.G.

Rambler wins again! Under official USAC supervision, a Rambler American Custom scored best gas mileage of all cars—28.35 M.P.G.—in the 17th running of the Mobilgas Economy Run. All cars were equipped with automatic transmission—and were chosen at random by USAC officials from dealer showrooms or factory assembly lines.

No car owner should expect to match in everyday driving the mileage achieved in this test by Rambler or any of the other cars. However, this test provides additional proof that Rambler delivers best gas mileage wherever you drive.

ORCHIDS TO MY LADY . . .

As long as women respond to orchids the way they do, men will undoubtedly continue to send them. Probably no other flower enjoys the reputation or has the prestige of the fair orchid, and this popularity continues unabated.

Started from seed, orchid plants take eight years to blossom, but if they are slow in being born, they are also slow to die. Take the cymbidium orchid, for instance. Fragile as it may seem, it is one of the longest-lasting flowers known to man. Florists quaintly refer to the keeping qualities of cymbidium in the same breath with stove lids and old Army boots.

Fate, I call it, (like the way New Year's Day always falls on a holiday). I mean, the way I was able to pry a passel of these cymbidiums loose from my orchid-grower—just in time for Easter, too. I trust you are properly impressed by this feat.

My cost accountant says I can sell these for $2.95 and still stay off relief. At two for $5, however, he's not so sure. But just because he's a C.P.A., do you think I should let an outsider tell me how to run my business? I'm going for broke. What's more, I'll gift-box, card and deliver for that price.

If you send her orchids from Allen's, you'll accomplish three things: 1. add immeasurably to the gross national product; 2. keep me out of the poorhouse; 3. keep you out of the doghouse.

WE NOMINATE

Edward Daniel Sullivan, 46-year old veteran of both World War II and the Korean War and the driving-force behind one of this country's pioneering summer-work programs, who this week in the quiet of the Nassau Hall Faculty Room was decorated by the French Government for distinguished service in the broad field of education. The Boston-born chairman of Princeton University's Department of Romance Languages, a part-time Harvard football player in the middle 1930's, was recognized by Charles deGaulle's Republic not only for his achievements as a teacher and scholar but also for linking more closely these United States and France.

As important as his contributions have been in interpreting 19th Century French Literature, and in tracing the evolution of the modern French novel, Sullivan's opening of a new channel to international understanding has won wide attention in the past two years. His idea is simply to place American college students in summer jobs with French firms in France, thereby plunging linguistically-qualified young men into a society which few Americans ever succeed in penetrating—that of the French worker on the job, whether in a mine or in the corner drugstore.

A year ago Sullivan and his associates in his Princeton Department sponsored a pilot program involving three undergraduates. One worked on the assembly-line in a Renault factory; another in the plant of a cement manufacturer in southern France; the third in a supermarket in the suburbs of Paris. In the summer ahead, with a grant of $6,500 from the far-seeing Carnegie Corporation of New York, the undertaking has been appreciably broadened. Sullivan has recently returned from a week of "prospecting" in France, with some 15 jobs (representing almost as many different areas of effort) "in his pocket."

In his forthright fashion, Sullivan, a Princetonian since 1946 (with time out for Korea) and formerly an instructor at Harvard and Radcliffe, doesn't attempt to over-paint the summer program. Of all candidates he demands proficiency in French and a willingness to work and he is not concerned with qualifications for particular, complicated positions. "The American student," he points out, "traditionally works in the summer, and often at tough physical tasks. This is a matter of surprise to Europeans; if we send them a number of our future leaders who are not afraid of getting their hands dirty, the impact could be considerable."

This summer venture does not mark the first time Sullivan has trail-blazed. Some two decades ago, in 1940-41 in the company of other Harvard students and faculty members, Sullivan helped arrange broadcasts over Boston radio station WRUL, which have been described as forerunners for other programs beamed during World War II, and ever since, to foreign countries through the Voice of America and private and government agencies. From occupied and unoccupied sections of Nazi-dominated France, WRUL's target, came reports that helped document prevailing conditions in Western Europe.

For meriting the distinctive "Palme Academique"; for suggesting methods which will enable many of this country's most promising representatives to supplement the heavy-handed "propaganda" emanating from government agencies; for understanding, but never underestimating, the potential of the oncoming generations; he is Town Topics' nominee for
